About SfRBM

Established in 1987, the Society for Redox Biology and Medicine (SfRBM) is a professional organization comprised of over 1,000 scientists, researchers and clinicians investigating redox biology, a unifying theme in the pathophysiology of human diseases. SfRBM is the North and South American affiliate chapter of the Society for Free Radical Research International. SfRBM is committed to empowering scientists, health care professionals, and trainees through:

- » Advancing world-class science to promote wellness and transform patient care.
- » Development and use of cutting-edge technologies to facilitate research discovery and impact.
- » Supporting and educating the next generation of scientists.
- » Fostering a collaborative environment that is inclusive to all.

The SfRBM is a global society whose membership spans resides in 45 countries across North and South America and Europe and Asia. They have 1,056 members: 64% are professors or academics; 17% are students (graduate & undergraduate); 10% are post-doctoral fellows; ~8% are emeritus, and ~1% are industry partners.
